

PERSONAL INFORMATION

Eduard Staudecker is an employee of the Ministry of Education and Women's Affairs in Austria. He graduated in 1993 at the Teacher Training College in Linz and in 2001 at the Vienna University of Business and Economics in the field of economics. In 2015 he received an MBA at the University of Salzburg extra-occupational.

His professional career started with the work as a teacher for lower secondary schools and adult training. He worked several years as a project manager for the Austrian Leonardo da Vinci Agency and then in the field of student administration and the ERASMUS program for an Austrian university as head of department

In 2006 he moved to the Ministry of Education, Arts and Culture. There he currently is working on the implementation of the EQF as CEO of the Austrian NQF Steering group, he represents Austria in the EQF advisory group. In addition he is responsible for the ECVET implementation as chairman of the national working group. He has also coordination and leading tasks in the field of validation of non-formal and informal learning in Austria.

 Federal Ministry of Education and Women's Affairs
Minoritenplatz 5
1010 Vienna

Current position

Replace with occupation or position held

Replace with employer's name and locality