Background

Although there is a network of educational counsellors at schools, pedagogical-psychological guidance centres as well as career counsellors at the Labour office units, where children and adults can get career guidance, the system is still rather fragmented and underdeveloped. The support of the integration of the system and increasing the quality of dedicated career guidance and counselling services is among the country's top priorities.

Objectives

The project aims at ensuring better availability of career guidance and, as a result, better access to continuing education and employment.

Description

The JOBHUB project was launched in 2016 to run until 2019. The project is carried out by the Further Education Fund (in cooperation with the Ministry of Labour and Social Affairs and the General Directorate of the Labour Office). It should develop an integrated information system in support to career guidance. The system will provide professional guidance, diagnostic tools and labour market intelligence, and will create a shared online platform for career counsellors. This is expected to improve the services provided by career counsellors and access to their services for all citizens in every stage of their educational and professional path.

As part of the project, a website was created to serve as a technical and information tool for covering career counselling in the Czech Republic. The website also provides also a self-evaluation tool that can suggest a suitable job position based on the profile completed by a website user. There is also a guide to life situations, a catalogue of career counsellors and career guides and information from the labour market containing the statistical data and vacancies in sectors.
