

ILO: Handbook on policy areas to reduce youth in NEET status

Reducing the number of young people in NEET status through targeted interventions

Description

This ILO Handbook serves as a repository of good practices and policies that have been implemented in different countries around the world with the aim of reducing NEET rates. Measures are framed in accordance with the intervention's primary objective, that is prevention, outreach and engagement, reintegration, and lowering unemployment.

By highlighting effective intervention approaches across all four policy areas, the ILO Handbook aims to inspire policymakers on the national and regional levels. It also emphasises the need to contextualise action to national contexts and to the specific identity and needs of those in NEET status or at danger of becoming NEET.
