

Young people from a migrant background at greater risk of leaving education and training early

Description

In the EU, more than one in four young people from a migrant background leave education and training too early.

Efforts in education are critical to preparing immigrants, and particularly their descendants, to be more successful and more active participants in society (Conclusions of the Council and the Representatives of the Governments of Member States on Integration, 4.5.2010).

The indicator considered here is the percentage of young people aged 18 to 24 who leave education and training early. It is calculated for all young people in that age group and is further specified for two particular sub-groups: young people born abroad and young people with foreign citizenship.

Read more in the link below.

Countries

 EU level

Downloads

Young people from a migrant background at greater risk of leaving education and training early

EN