Financing on-the-job training	Employers pay wages to the apprentices, however, state subsidises the amount paid by employers (see Subsidisation of practical training for EPAS apprentices). In 2017, the state subsidy was set at EUR 11 per day (equal to 64% of daily apprentice wage). Subsidies for apprentice wages amount to EUR 1,872 per apprentice per year. Employers pay also social insurance contributions (see 'apprentice social insurance'). In total, employers contribute approximately 45% (or 35%) of the cost for the on-the-job training (both wages and social insurance). The total amount of public financing for the on-the-job training is estimated at EUR 1,000,000 per year. The

	figure does not include the non-subsidised part of wages paid to apprentices who are trained at public companies. EU funding for the on-the-job training is estimated to be approximately EUR 9,000,000 (both in 2015 and 2016). Assessment of financing arrangements	The apprenticeship scheme is supported through one single instrument that subsidises part of the apprentice wage. The instrument indeed facilitates employers' participation to the scheme. Still, the administrative work related to the instrument was considered quite demanding. Since 2017 the subsidy is paid directly to apprentices and not the employers (as was the practice in the past).
Contextual information	Statutory minimum wage: 26.18 EUR per day for those over 25 years of age, 22.83 EUR per day for those under 25. EUR 683,76 per month (2016 S2, 2017 S1 and S2) Average yearly working time (hours) for a full time job:
