

Eurofound: Young people not in employment, education or training: Characteristics, costs and policy responses in Europe

Description

This report analyses the labour market situation of young people in Europe, with a specific focus on the group categorised as NEET. It examines the determinants of belonging to the NEET group, and measures the economic and social costs of NEETs. In addition, it assesses how policy in Member States has sought to support young people to gain a foothold in the labour market.

Countries

 EU level

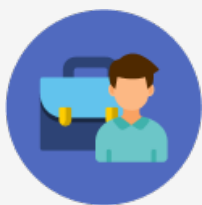

Downloads

Young people not in employment, education or training: Characteristics, costs and policy responses in Europe

EN

Related intervention approaches

Easing transitions into work education-or-training