Foreword

The European Commission published its Memorandum on lifelong learning in October 2000. The Member States, EEA and candidate countries, as well as European institutions and non-government organisations were given until 30 June 2001 to organise extensive consultation on the memorandum, involving a maximum number of European citizens. The period from January to June 2001, covered by the present bibliography, was therefore a time of intense debate and reflection on lifelong learning in Europe. This first issue includes references to output from this productive period and, no doubt, further documents emanating from this debate will appear in future issues.

Cedefop and Eurydice provided the Commission with supporting material as background to the consultation process. A joint publication, National actions to implement lifelong learning in Europe, was published and bibliographical material was supplied. Consequently, Eurydice published its contribution entitled Thematic bibliography: lifelong learning. Bibliographical material supplied by Cedefop provided the basis for the present bibliography, which has been added to and improved.

The memorandum proclaimed lifelong learning to be the 'guiding principle for provision and participation across the full continuum of learning contexts'. Drawing together all aspects of education and training under one umbrella, it therefore covers a wide spectrum of learning throughout life and in all settings, formal, non-formal and informal. Cedefop's work focuses on learning in that part of the continuum, usually following compulsory education, when preparation for work commences and continues until retirement. The scope of the library's collection also spans this phase, covering initial and continuing vocational education and training (VET). It complements the work of other international organisations dealing with the literature on general and adult education, specifically Eurydice and Unesco's Institute for Education in Hamburg. Together our valuable libraries can provide a picture of the literature on lifelong learning - from the cradle to the grave.

Knowledge of the literature is essential in keeping abreast of research and developments in policy and practice. This bibliography and its electronic counterpart will provide an important tool for researchers, policy-makers and practitioners alike.

Introduction

Lifelong learning bibliography: a European VET perspective

A new bibliography on LLL

This semi-annual bibliography is the printed counterpart of an online version available as a profile from our bibliographical database VET-Bib at:

http://www.trainingvillage.gr/etv/Information_resources/Library/profiles.asp (¹)

Clicking on the profile will allow you to view a list of publications organised in the same way as the printed bibliography, which is updated in 'real time' as soon as a new record is added to the database.

The profile is organised into two main sections: one part organised thematically following the main keywords of the European Commission Memorandum on lifelong learning (²); the other organised according to geographical aspects.

All the items listed in the bibliography are catalogued in the bibliographical database VET-Bib. Public access to this database is provided through Cedefop's own Internet site (www.cedefop.eu.int/library.asp) and the European Training Village. (www.trainingvillage.gr)

Data are provided: monthly by partner institutions from Cedefop's documentary information network(³), in each of the EU Member States, Norway and Iceland, who supply bibliographical records of the latest documents on vocational education and training; and, by Cedefop's librarians who select and add material from the EU and international organisations.

The VET-Bib database launched by Cedefop in 1985, provides comprehensive coverage of European literature on developing vocational education and training (VET). It mainly includes monographs, journal articles and some grey literature. The most widely covered subjects are: descriptions of national training systems; training policy and reform; training in specific sectors; various types of training (school-based or vocational education, apprenticeship, alternating training); training for specific target groups: youth, women, disabled, unemployed; continuing and further training for those in employment; certification systems and procedures, and recognising diplomas and qualifications; training developments because of structural and occupational changes, including skill development. Related themes cover labour market outlooks, employment policies, forecasting workforce needs, the sectors and types of occupation which are developing and their resulting training needs, lifelong learning policies, e-learning initiatives and tools.

A semi-annual bibliography

This thematic bibliography will be published semi-annually to inform VET specialists of new publications and documents on lifelong learning. Each issue of this new series will list the latest publications catalogued and indexed in the VET-Bib database during the previous six months. The Lifelong learning bibliography includes monographs, chapters, journal articles, legal texts, Internet sites and CD-ROMs dealing with lifelong learning.

(¹) To access this service on the ETV (European Training Village), users should register.

(²) Full bibliographical reference.

(³) For contact details, see Annex.

The bibliography is structured:

- (a) under headings currently of particular interest, e.g. lifelong learning as seen by international organisations, EU policy, employability, partnerships, and themes in line with key messages of the EC memorandum: basic skills, financing, innovation, accrediting and valuing learning, guidance, and access close to the learner;
- (b) by the situation in Member States and the candidate countries, at international level, etc.

Within each category, literature is presented in alphabetical order by title, showing all important fields to enable identification of suitable documents. For titles which are not in English or French a rough translation has been provided to give users an idea of an item. In addition, documents have been indexed using the TEF (European training thesaurus). Descriptors are listed under each publication.

The easiest way to obtain the full record of a document mentioned in the bibliography is to open the VET-Bib database, click on the 'get' function, choose the index 'system number' and type in the VET-Bib system number. This is the number in square brackets above each reference in the bibliography.

The full record of each document will provide additional information, such as an abstract, written in English or French and details of availability, etc.

Cedefop hopes the Lifelong learning bibliography, issued periodically, will be a useful tool for all who have an interest in lifelong learning, both for practical and research purposes.

Reactions and comments are welcome. If you have a document you would like added to any of our bibliographies, please send the library a copy for cataloguing and abstracting, and we would be glad to include it.

Cedefop (European Centre for the Development of Vocational Training)

Lifelong learning bibliography: a European VET perspective

No 1. January-June 2001

Luxembourg: Office for Official Publications of the European Communities

2002 – VI, 52 pp. – 21 x 29.7 cm

(Cedefop Dossier series ; 1 – ISSN 1608-9901)

ISBN 92-896-0120-5

Cat. No: TI-42-02-779-EN-C

Free of charge – 6005 EN –

The European Commission published its Memorandum on lifelong learning in October 2000. The Member States, EEA and candidate countries, as well as European institutions and non-government organisations were given until 30 June 2001 to organise extensive consultation on the memorandum, involving a maximum number of European citizens. The period from January to June 2001 covered by the present bibliography, was therefore a time of intense debate and reflection on lifelong learning in Europe.

This first issue of Cedefop's Lifelong learning bibliography includes references to output from this productive period, as well as monographs, chapters, journal articles, legal texts, Internet sites and CD-ROMs dealing with lifelong learning at European, international and Member State levels.

This semi-annual bibliography is the printed counterpart of an online version available as a profile from our bibliographical database VET-Bib at: http://www.trainingvillage.gr/etv/Information_resources/Library/profiles.asp

The perspective of this bibliography is both vocational and educational training in Europe. Data are provided: monthly by partner institutions from Cedefop's documentary information network, in each of the EU Member States, Norway and Iceland, who supply bibliographical records of the latest documents on vocational education and training; and daily, by Cedefop's librarians who select and add material from the EU and international organisations.
