Thessaloniki, Tuesday 28 June 2016

Location: Thessaloniki City Hall – Town Council Room

Participants:

- Kostadinka KUNEVA, Kostas CHRYSOGONOS, Members of the European Parliament
- Rania ANTONOPOULOU, Alternate Minister of Labour, Social Security and Social Solidarity
- James CALLEJA, Cedefop Director
- Vassilis DAGDILELIS, President of EOPPEP
- Stavros KARAGKOUNIS, CEO EOPPEP
- Industries of Northern Greece, chambers, trade unions, universities, technical universities, professional schools, institutes for vocational training

Objective

The event, initiated by Thomas Händel, MEP and Chair of the Employment and Social Affairs Committee, aims at bringing together the worlds of employment and education to explore how employability could attract more jobs in the labour market. The activity will also be an opportunity to discuss cooperation between Cedefop and the Greek authorities, and the role the European Parliament can play in strengthening cooperation between authorities and social partners, particularly employers. Presentations and discussions will also focus on how to entice employers and other social partners to promote work-based learning and invest in apprenticeships in Greece and in the Central Macedonia region.
